Honorary Degree Recipient

Laura D'Andrea Tyson

Following her graduation summa cum laude from Smith College (1969) and her Ph.D. in economics from Massachusetts Institute of Technology (1974), Laura D'Andrea Tyson went on to the University of California at Berkeley. There, as professor of economics and business administration, Director of the Institute of International Studies, and research director at the Berkeley Roundtable on the International Economy, she shared her innovative thinking with other scholars, her students, and policy makers.

In the seventies and eighties she co-edited numerous books on international economics, including Power, Purpose and Collective Choice, on socialist states; and Politics and Productivity, which revealed the inner workings of the Japanese economy. Her provocative book, Who's Bashing Whom? Trade Conflict in High Technology Industries, was published in 1992.

In addition to her scholarly work, Dr. Tyson has steadily focused and broadened her expertise in worldwide economics through membership on such boards and commissions as the Economic Policy Institute Research Council and the Council of Foreign Relations. This depth of background brought a vast understanding to her duties in national government as chair of President Clinton's Council of Economic Advisors. She continues to influence policy at the highest levels as current assistant to the president for economic policy.

Dr. Tyson has called for coordination in this nation's drive for competitiveness, saying, "The task will be for the United States, in its own way, to develop new capacities that are equal to its new challenges." Today, we honor Laura D'Andrea Tyson for her insight into the national and global arenas our graduates are about to enter.

President's Award Recipient

Matthew S. Klinger

President Ladner has inaugurated this year a new recognition for excellence —The President's Award—presented to the graduating senior who best exemplifies the American University experience. The President has selected Matthew Scott Klinger of the School of International Service to receive the award for 1995.

During his undergraduate career, Matthew has demonstrated the attributes the University strives to foster: academic achievement and intellectual curiosity; integrity and selflessness in citizenship; leadership and service to the community; and building community through promoting the understanding and acceptance of cultural and racial diversity.

Matthew is graduating magna cum laude with University Honors. He has been on the Dean's List every term, is a member of the SIS honor society, and has been inducted into the University's chapter of Phi Beta Kappa. In addition to his scholarly achievements, Matthew has been a leader in student government, having served as president of the SIS Undergraduate Cabinet in his junior year. He is a Resident Assistant in Anderson Hall and a member of the student judiciary and disciplinary council. In recognition of his contributions to the campus, he also is this year's winner of the Student Award for Outstanding Service, presented yesterday at the University Honors Convocation.

Matthew is also an outstanding athlete. He turned down offers to play professionally with the Chicago White Sox, choosing instead to pursue his education and to play on and coach intramural teams in four sports. He has also made the time to be head coach of a boys basketball team at a junior high school in the District of Columbia.

Following graduation, Matthew will begin a graduate program in European Studies at the University of Bradford as a British Marshall Scholar. He is The American University's first recipient of this prestigious academic award, and one of only forty scholars chosen by the British government to study for advanced degrees in the United Kingdom.

The Tradition of Commencement at The American University

The American University awarded its first degrees (two doctorates and one master's) at a commencement ceremony held in the university's amphitheater in 1916. Over the years, commencements have grown and changed as the university has grown larger and more diverse. Today, the university marks its 101st commencement. More than 1600 students from the diverse disciplines of the arts and sciences, law, business, public affairs, international service, and communication will participate in commencement ceremonies this spring.

We are delighted that Dr. Laura D'Andrea Tyson is participating with us as an honorary degree recipient today. She joins a distinguished list of university honorees, including U.S. Presidents Franklin D. Roosevelt, Dwight D. Eisenhower, John F. Kennedy and William J. Clinton, Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, Supreme Court Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, Congresswoman Barbara C. Jordan, distinguished editor and publisher Norman Cousins, astronomer Carl Sagan, symphony conductor Mstislav Rostropovich, statesman Alexander Dubcek, ambassador Robert Strauss, author Alex Haley, television journalist Ted Koppel, historian Henry Steele Commager, businessman J. Willard Marriott and economist John Kenneth Galbraith, to name a few.

We take pride in this long and distinguished tradition of commencements as we celebrate the achievements of today's graduating class.

Academic Regalia

The history of academic dress dates to medieval European universities of the fourteenth century. Originally, universities used the same costumes as religious orders, which established most early universities. These costumes consisted of the customary clerical robe and hood, worn for utilitarian purposes.

When universities achieved identity as educational institutions rather than extensions of religious orders, the design and the symbolism of their regalia began to change. Universities in Europe (and in overseas areas culturally tied to Europe) developed colorful gowns and caps, and the hood became a designator of degrees instead of a piece of headgear.

During the past two decades an increasing number of American institutions have adopted gowns and caps that incorporate their official colors. This change began decades ago when Harvard University introduced its crimson doctoral gown. That dramatic new gown prompted other institutions to try to match its resplendence. The American University's distinctive red, white, and blue regalia was introduced at the university's eighty-seventh commencement in the spring of 1988.

Participants in academic ceremonies normally wear the academic regalia to which they are entitled by virtue of the degrees they hold. The field of study in which a degree was earned is identified in accord with a standard code of colors. Although different universities use different systems, often the colors below are used as the edging of hoods for all degrees, and they may be used as part of the decoration of doctor's gowns and sometimes for tassels on caps:

| | |
|---|---|
| Arts, Letters, Humanities | White |
| Commerce, Accountancy, Business | Drab |
| Economics | Copper |
| Education | Light Blue |
| Fine Arts | Brown |
| Journalism | Crimson |
| Law | Purple |
| Library Science | Lemon |
| Music | Pink |
| Nursing | Apricot |
| Philosophy | Dark Blue |
| Physical Education | Sage Green |
| Public Administration (including Foreign Service) | Peacock Blue |
| Public Health | Salmon Pink |
| Science | Golden Yellow |
| Social Work | Citron |
| Theology | Scarlet |

Spring 1995
Degree Candidates

The following students have applied to receive degrees as of spring 1995. The university awards degrees only after certifying that all degree requirements have been satisfied.

Graduation honors listed for individual students are projections based upon the cumulative grade point average at the conclusion of the fall 1994 semester. These designations are subject to verification at the time of final degree clearance.

Students who are projected to graduate with Latin honors and/or University honors wear gold hoods during the commencement ceremony.
